New York on lockdown after Boston Marathon

High alert. About 1,000 NYPD cops assigned to counter-terrorism duties were mobilized after the attack.

Subways and landmarks are receiving amped-up security in New York City today after explosions at the Boston Marathon.

Mayor Michael Bloomberg said the NYPD stepped up security at strategic locations and important infrastructure around the city, including underground.

"Some of the security steps we are taking may be noticeable, including deployment of critical response vehicles and additional police personnel, and others will not be," Bloomberg said.

Hundreds of New Yorkers were part of the runners in Boston yesterday.

About 530 runners were from the New York City area took part in the race, according to numbers that were pulled from marathon records.

One city running group, NYC Runs, reported that their runners so far had all reported back that they were safe, adding on Facebook, "Our hearts are very heavy."

"All of our thoughts and prayers are with the victims and their families of the bombings at the Boston Marathon today, as well as with the runners, spectators, volunteers and staff of the Boston Athletic Association," New York Road Runners President Mary Wittenberg added.

She said NYRR, which runs the ING New York City Marathon, will continue to work "hand in hand" with the NYPD for future events to make sure that the race continues to be safe for everyone.

"The safety and security of all New York Road Runners' races is and will always be our top priority," she said. ALISON BOWEN

NY runner recall shock

Two New Yorkers who were at the Boston Marathon shared their shock that a beloved race could turn so bloody.

Steve Lastoe, founder of NYC Runs, was at the Boston Marathon today, along with at least 50 people he said he knew running the race.

Just yesterday, he said, he spent hours helping out at the finish line. He left the course shortly before the bombing.

"We were just kind of shocked," he said. "We'd left the course 20 minutes before, so when it was an otherwise wonderful, beautiful Boston marathon."

Nearly everyone they know has been safely accounted for, he said.

The FBI has charged two local men in a plot to kidnap, torture and kill women.

FBI Assistant Director George Venizelos said today that the agency arrested two people who planned to kidnap and torture women.

The FBI charged Richard Meltz and Christopher Asch in the plot.

He said the men had obtained a Taser and chemicals to anesthetize their victims.

Son was a witness

Samuel's 19-year-old son from a previous relationship, Dondre Samuel, is being interviewed by police, a law enforcement source said. Police reportedly have the officer's mother, Verena Samuel, in custody as well.

Dondre was the 911 caller and a witness to the shooting, according to the source. He reportedly jumped out of a window and then called 911. Samuel's mother may also have been a witness to the incident.

A law enforcement source reports that they found Peters, 33, in the entryway of their first-floor apartment in East Flatbush, Brooklyn. The bodies of the police officer and her baby were found face-up on the bed in her bedroom.

Sex assault takes place at City Hall Park

Attempted rape.

The suspect came after the woman on early Sunday morning.

Police are searching for a man who sexually assaulted a woman early Sunday morning near City Hall Park in lower Manhattan.

The woman was attacked at about 4:45 a.m. in the vicinity of Park Row and Beekman Street, cops said. The suspect followed the 28-year-old victim into Theatre Alley, where he pushed her to the ground and then attempted to rape her.

Nearby construction workers heard the woman scream and ran over, scaring off the suspect, the New York Post reported.

The victim was taken to an area hospital where she was listed in stable condition. Police released a surveillance photo of a man that is wanted for questioning.

Three killed in marathon bombing

Boston bombings.

Hundreds injured in yesterday's finish line blast as a nation wonders why.

Two blasts, three deaths and more than 100 injuries changed the face of the Boston Marathon yesterday, perhaps forever.

Around 2:50 p.m., simultaneous explosions, between 50 and 100 yards apart from each other, bellowed through the crowded finish line of the Boston Marathon. About 141 people were being treated at Boston hospitals yesterday night, including more than a dozen who were critically hurt.

One of the three dead was reportedly an 8-year-old boy.

About 141 people were being treated at Boston hospitals yesterday night, including more than a dozen who were critically hurt.

Three people were killed, according to Boston Police Commissioner Ed Davis. One of them was reportedly an 8-year-old boy.

4

Massachusetts General Hospital treated 29 victims, four who suffered "traumatic amputations of their legs," according to Dr. Alasdair Conn, chief of Emergency Services.

ulate as to who was responsible for the attack.

"There are a lot of questions, questions we wish we could answer," said U.S. Attorney Carmen Ortiz.

"This is a very thorough and active and fluid ongoing investigation. A lot of information is being sought, and there has been a bit of misinformation. We don't want to add to that misinformation."

When asked if the bombings were considered a terrorist attack, Boston Police Commissioner Ed Davis said, "We're not being definitive on this right now. You can reach your own conclusions based upon what happened."

The FBI's special agent in charge Richard DesLauriers said the criminal investigation was being treated as a "potential terrorist investigation."

He also encouraged Boston residents to have a heightened state of vigilance in the coming days.

President Barack Obama called Gov. Patrick and Mayor Thomas Menino following the attacks, assuring them the cooperation of the FBI. Patrick said the state police and the National Guard were fully deployed.

Obama addressed the nation around 6:10 p.m., calling the deaths a "senseless loss."

"We still do not know who did this or why. And people shouldn't jump to conclusions before we have all the facts. But make no mistake — we will get to the bottom of this," Obama said. "And we will find out who did this; we'll find out why they did this. Any responsible individuals, any responsible groups will feel the full weight of justice."

BOMBING IN BOSTON 10

Runner 'just got a ghastly feeling'

At the Hotel Comm on Commonwealth Avenue, the lobby was teeming with detoured runners yesterday afternoon, most on mobile devices, eager to assure their loved ones they were OK after a series of blasts had been reported at the Boston Marathon.

Peregrine Hood, a runner from London, said he was just coming up to Boylston for the final stretch when he knew something was wrong.

"I was getting ready to finish when I heard a bang," he said.

"The headphones were on, the euphoria was setting in and then I just got a ghastly feeling that something was wrong. Then there was massive confusion, people running, so I just stopped and started moving away."

A runner reacts // JOHN TLUMACKI, THE BOSTON GLOBE VIA GETTY IMAGES

Hood said his first reaction was, "Oh my God. My girlfriend is in the finisher's box."

"She said she literally ran for her life," reported Hood. "There was a terrible uncertainty for about 30 minutes."

Hood said the scene quickly became grim.

"This is a great day in Boston and everyone's merry, but then there was just a certain panic and it turned into what looked like a refugee camp," he said.

The president speaks

Obama: 'American people will say a prayer for Boston tonight'

President Barack Obama addressed the nation and promised justice in a televised address Monday night, after three people were killed at the Boston Marathon.

"The American people will say a prayer for Boston tonight," the president said.

Obama was briefed by the FBI and his Homeland Security team, and pledged to provide any federal resources.

"On days like this, there are no Republicans or Democrats, but Americans united in their concern." The president did not characterize the explosions as terrorism, but a White House official later said the situation was being handled as "an act of terror."

"We still do not know who did this or why. ... People should not jump to conclusions before we know the facts," Obama said. "Make no mistake, we will get to the bottom of this. We will find out who did this and why they did this. Any responsible groups will feel the full weight of justice."

The president noted that yesterday was Patriots Day, a holiday that "celebrates the free and fiercely independent spirit that this great American city of Boston has reflected from the earliest days of our nation."

Global warming

Scientists find Antarctic summer ice is melting faster

The summer ice melt in parts of Antarctica is at its highest level in 1,000 years, Australian and British researchers reported yesterday, adding new evidence of the impact of global warming on sensitive Antarctic glaciers and ice shelves.

Researchers from the Australian National University and the British Antarctic Survey found data taken from an ice core also shows the summer ice melt has been 10 times more intense over the past 50 years compared with 600 years ago.

"It's definitely

The ice melt can increase dramatically once temperatures hit a tipping point. / GETTY IMAGES evidence that the climate and the environment is changing in this part of Antarctica," lead researcher Nerilie Abram said.

Abram and her team drilled a 400-yard deep ice core on James Ross Island, near the northern tip of the Antarctic Peninsula, to measure historical temperatures and compare them with summer ice melt levels in the area.

They found that, while the temperatures have gradually increased by 2.9 degrees Fahrenheit over 600 years, the rate of ice melting has been most intense over the past 50 years.

That shows the ice melt can increase dramatically in climate terms once temperatures hit a tipping point. REUTERS

Conflict. N. Korea issues new threats on founder's birthday

North Korea made new threats of military action yesterday as the reclusive nation celebrated the anniversary of its founder's birth, stoking tension on the peninsula with a new "ultimatum" to South Korea in the standoff over its nuclear program.

The latest statement from Pyongyang followed threats of nuclear attacks on the United States, South Korea and Japan, after new U.N. sanctions were imposed in response to Pyongyang tested a nuclear weapon in February.

"Our retaliatory action will start without any notice from now," North Korea's state news agency KCNA said yesterday, noting actions would "start immediately."

The statement was issued by the official North Korean news agency KCNA after signs that Pyongyang may be presenting a less warlike stance on the "Day of the Sun," the date the North's founder Kim Il-Sung was born. Although many Pyongyang watchers had expected a big military parade to showcase North Korea's armed forces, the day was marked in Pyongyang with a festival of flowers named after Kim.

The United States has offered talks, but on the pre-condition that North Korea abandon its nuclear weapons ambitions. North Korea deems its nuclear arms a "treasured sword" and has vowed never to give them up. Nevertheless, Secretary of State John Kerry, ending a trip to the region dominated by concern about North Korea, stressed his interest in a diplomatic solution.

Poll. Opinion of federal government hits record low

Americans' opinion of the federal government has fallen to a record low even as they continue to view local and state governments favorably, according to Pew Research Center survey released on Monday.

Just 28 percent of Americans rate the government in Washington favorably, the lowest percentage ever in a Pew survey and down 5 percentage points from a year ago, Pew said in a statement.

The favorability rating has fallen steadily from a high of 82 percent in November 2001, after the Sept. 11, 2001, attacks on the United States. REUTERS

Obama to meet with Putin in Russia in September

President Barack Obama will meet with Russian President Vladimir Putin in September when he travels to Russia for the G20 summit, the White House said yesterday.

The United States is pressing Russia to use its influence to help reduce tensions with North Korea. Washington and Moscow are also at odds over the civil war in Syria. The announcement of the September meeting came after Obama's national security adviser Tom Donilon held discussions with Putin and other leaders during a trip to Russia. REUTERS

US Supreme Court declines to hear NY gun rights case

Gun control is currently in the public eye following the Sandy Hook Elementary School shootings in Newtown, Conn., four months ago. GETTY IMAGES

Guns. The decision not to hear the New York case does not mean it could not take up the same legal question later.

Staying out of the raging national debate over guns, the Supreme Court yesterday declined to weigh in on whether gun owners have a constitutional right to carry handguns outside the home.

The court decided not to hear a challenge to a New York state law that requires those who want to carry a concealed handgun to show they have a special reason before they can get a license.

The gun owners challenging the law said that the right to bear arms enshrined in the Second Amendment to the U.S. Constitution is not limited to the right to keep a handgun at home.

In recent years, the Supreme Court has expanded gun rights, first by finding in the 2008 District of Columbia v. Heller case that the Second Amendment guaranteed an individual right to bear arms and then ruling two years later in McDonald v. City of Chicago, that the earlier ruling applied to the states.

Gun control is currently in the public eye following the Sandy Hook Elementary School shootings in Newtown, Conn., four months ago, and President Barack Obama's subsequent decision to push for legislation to curb gun violence.

The Senate begins debate on Monday on gun control legislation that would expand background checks for gun buyers. REUTERS

Sharon Osbourne FINALLY got fed up with Ozzy?

Everyone's favorite heavy metal couple, Ozzy and Sharon Osbourne, are reportedly well on their way to splitting up, according to Radar Online. While Ozzy is said to be living in a rented Beverly Hills mansion, Sharon has been staying at the Beverly Hills Hotel since at least the beginning of this month, sources say. "They are living at different addresses and not spending any time together," a source recently told the Sun. Sharon is believed to be staying at the famous hotel while she decorates a new home — but not the one where Ozzy is staying.

So what is it that put Sharon over the edge? She's been with him since she was 18; she's put up with him biting heads off of bats, dabbling in the occult, locking himself in hotel rooms to binge on drugs and alcohol for months at a time, trying to strangle her(!) — you know, the usual marital complaints. If that didn't break their marriage, what did? Did Ozzy just not recognize Sharon's face anymore? (Actually, my money is on this theory.) For his part, son Jack Osbourne tweeted that this gossip is "bulls—."

Lohan's family bonds at Coachella

Lindsay Lohan hit up the Coachella music festival over the weekend, and despite some former pals being worried for her life if she attended, she seemed to come out of it just fine. Lohan was spotted with her 16-year-old brother, Cody, and sources tell E! News that the troubled actress was aiming for "a healthy, fun time at Coachella" before heading to her court-ordered 90-day rehab stay next month.

I mean. I just. Ugh. I can't. If the entire world thinks you are a terrible mother (we're talking about you, Dina Lohan), wouldn't you not send your 16-year-old to a drug-filled, rock festival with your addict daughter?

I give up. Someone get me a job in hotel management as I'm done writing about this family.

No kids for Ellen

Portia de Rossi tells Out magazine that she and wife Ellen DeGeneres have absolutely no plans to start a family, despite pressure from friends and loved ones. "You have to really want to have kids, and neither of us did. So it's just going to be me and Ellen and no babies," de Rossi tells the mag. "There comes some pressure in your mid-30s, and you think, 'Am I going to have kids so I don't miss out on something that other people really seem to love?' Or is it that I really genuinely want to do this with my whole heart? I didn't feel that my response was 'yes.'"

Real Husband Kevin Hart arrested

Comedian Kevin Hart was arrested for driving under the influence early Sunday morning in Los Angeles, and he wasn't shy about sharing the details after posting bail. "I'm officially a thug. I spent six hours in jail last night," Hart announced on Twitter. "This cop was the worst. He knew who I was and wanted to make an example of me. ... When the cop asked me to take the sobriety test I said, 'What, waste our time? I'm drunk, man.'" Hart did also offer some more serious reflection on the night's events: "This is a wake-up call for me. I have to be smarter, and last night I wasn't."

The nameless protagonist in Pakistani native Mohsin Hamid's third novel, "How to Get Filthy Rich in Rising Asia," leaves his poor village behind for the glamor of the big city. Written in the style of a self-help book, the story traces the boy's transformation from a simple rural boy to a swank urban tycoon. Along the way, Hamid's funny, poignant novel explores Asian urbanization, materialism, love and loss.

Can you tell us a bit about your inspiration?

I wanted to write a novel about the huge changes in Asia and much of the world. Billions of people are moving out of the countryside, moving to huge cities, and starting new lives in a new urban environment. The city I was born in had about a million people when I was born 41 years ago, and it has 10 million today. The same thing that happened to America in the 20th century, when people were leaving the countryside for the cities, is now playing itself out in Asia, Latin America and Africa. There are more economic opportunities in the city.

Not many books are written in the second person. What was your reason for this?

On the surface, the novel is about urbanization and the ferociousness of the market. But underneath that, it is a spiritual quest — how does one find happiness in the midst of this dislocation and materialism? It is really about trying to find some antidote to the anxiety we all feel. It was important for me to be able to talk to the reader. It allows a kind of honesty between us.

What about the character #### of "the pretty girl"? She's an important thread throughout the book.

She is the boy's female counterpart. She's living in a slum and wants to get out and eventually works her way up and starts her own business. She's ferociously independent, but still has the need for connection and intimacy. There are more and more women breaking away from cultural traditions, and the changing the economy allows them to make a living. She's part of that trend.

What are your attitudes about this cultural shift?

The market is essentially about self-centeredness, but life is also about loss. We need some narrative about loss — previously our traditional folk stories or religion provided this, but if we're leaving behind our villages, can stories do the same? This novel is an exploration of that. One way we center ourselves is love. It can be romantic love, children, it can be a cause.

Finding the Joy in solitude

Cabin fever. The Joy Formidable turned a canceled gig up north into a majestic album.

Normally, a canceled gig is a big setback for a touring band. For the Joy Formidable, however, one particular ditched show turned into creative gold. Dial back to Thanksgiving 2011: The British rock band's U.S. tour for their debut, "The Big Roar," was headed to Portland, Maine.

Then the venue abruptly closed, canceling what was the last show before a week off. What to do? Head home early for a rest, or travel deeper into Maine? They chose the latter.

"We'd been writing on the road," says singer/guitarist Ritzy Bryan. "It's difficult to track on buses and in hotel rooms. There's only a certain amount of charm that having background noise brings to a record. ... We were very excited by what we were writing and we needed time to reflect on it."

So the trio chose a different type of lodging.

Quoted

"We rented a cabin in the woods for a week. The cabin had such a great energy we decided to go back there in January to finish the record, to make sense of it all."

Ritzzy Bryan, singer/guitarist for The Joy Formidable, on recording their latest album, "Wolf's Law"

"We rented a cabin in the woods for a week," says Bryan. "The cabin had such a great energy we decided to go back there in January to finish the record, to make sense of it all."

Their stay didn't turn into a horror movie. Instead, with no distractions — no Wi-Fi, no phone — Bryan and her bandmates found the perfect spot to craft their sophomore album, "Wolf's Law."

Unusually, the title song is a hidden track — but in many ways, it's the album's most important. It was written in London, one of the first new songs after their debut, and it's the link between the nascent band and what is now a seasoned trio.

"Wolf's Law" was a big part of making this record, almost too big," says Bryan. "We needed to include it, but we always felt that it belonged on its own because it was conceived almost as an art piece. It needs a space on its own."

Serenity now!

The Maine thing

Bryan recalls those three weeks in the dead of winter in Maine and laughs: "To the locals, it was quite a mild winter, which we were completely bewildered by. We were scooping up 9 feet of snow in the backyard. But it was perfect. There's an extra level of serenity that befell the cabin from having that much snow."

Listen to the 'Globetrotter'

Michael Clinton knows a thing or two about traveling. He even wrote a book about it.

Fly high

Pick your preferred flyers and "build on your favorite airline premium status for upgrades, faster boarding and special treatment," he says. And pack light, with clothes that go double-duty. "Carry on at all times, regardless of how long you will be away. Think black, think washables."

As the president and publishing director of Hearst Magazines, Michael Clinton does more than hop on flights for work: He's a self-described "travelaholic." In his new book "The Globetrotter Diaries," which he says is a hybrid travel guide and memoir, he shares his travel tips and insider insights on hot destinations. With summer right around the corner, we asked Clinton to share some of his knowledge with us.

Fly early

"Take the earliest flight out to avoid delays in traffic, security and flight departures," says Clinton. "That 6 a.m. flight might mean a brutal wake-up call in the middle of the night, but your airplane [will be] there and it'll be one of the first flights out before the airport gets too congested. You'll have no traffic and you'll get through security faster."

Bring your family into planning

Make sure that there is something for everyone while planning your vacation. "An unhappy teenager can ruin any vacation," he says. "I've heard too many stories from parents who had a miserable trip because they were interested in visiting a place, but their kids didn't want to go there."

Go with the flow (but have backup)

Embrace your inner globetrotter and see where your travels take you. "Half the fun of travel is the unexpected," Clinton notes. But some surprises aren't always welcome: Be sure to "read the fine print for extra charges" as well as "always have a Plan B, as a plan can oftentimes fall apart."

1 Albuquerque International Balloon Fiesta

The largest hot air balloon festival in the world offers nine days of colorful fun for spectators come October. It began in 1972 with the launch of 13 balloons from a shopping-mall parking lot. Today attendees can take in the spectacular site of hundreds of balloons floating into the heavens. Check out the Special Shape Rodeo for balloons in the shape of Jaws, Darth Vader, Humpty Dumpty and other characters. And why not hitch a ride? You know what they say: When in Albuquerque ...

4 Music City Festival & BBQ Championship

Nashville has an amazingly rich musical history, and locals proudly celebrate that tradition during this annual August event. Of course you can check out live music any night of the week in Nashville, but there's something special about enjoying it on the banks of the Cumberland River with the buzz of the crowd. And aspiring chefs can take part in the barbecue competition, so now's the time to perfect that special sauce.

2 Po'Boy Festival

New Orleans is known for the booze and beads of Mardi Gras, but for a more authentic taste of the Big Easy, check out the Po'Boy Festival in November. Festivalgoers gather on Oak Street for a daylong celebration of the city's iconic submarine sandwich, filled with Louisiana hot sausage, fried shrimp or oysters and root beer-glazed ham. Or try a souped-up banh mi po'boy adapted by New Orleans' Vietnamese families. Once you've had your fill, you can dance the night away in the streets.

3 Food and Wine Classic

Aspen is a posh mountain setting that's spectacular in the summer. With tastings and cooking demonstrations, this iconic weekend food fest held in June is a "sun-up to sun-down paradise for food- and wine-lovers," says Nancy Wall Hopkins, senior deputy food and entertaining editor for Better Homes and Gardens. "But it's not for lightweights or beginners," she adds. "I go with my smartest foodie friends to learn, savor, trade food secrets and hang with the brightest food minds." The caveat? Tickets are $1,250 each.

Throwing a party for kids and adults? It's doable! / THINKSTOCK

Make your next party kid-friendly

Party. Planning events that please both parents and kids can be done. We promise.

With her L.A.-based company Chic Events, Rachel Hollis has dreamed up parties for every occasion. She's even managed to pick up a few tricks to help parents please crowds of all ages.

How can party planning be more manageable for people with small children?

Have courage; people are going to be so appreciative of anything you do! Go with your strengths: If you don't know how to cook, but make good cocktails, great! You can

Party tip

How can you make sure all age groups have fun?

Think of it as two separate parties. Create the party for the adults first, then take part of that theme and make it appropriate for kids. There is a craft station at all of my parties. When guests ask what they can bring, I'll ask them instead to commit to half an hour at the craft table. Someone's always lifeguarding the table, and everybody can focus on having a good time.

get the food from a local restaurant. Do the things you're good at. Give yourself wiggle room on things you're less familiar with.

How can parents involve their kids?

I like to keep them busy and out of my hair. I'll often say, "Go to the backyard and find three branches and two pretty flowers," and I'll incorporate those things into the decor. It becomes a game for them.

What is the most common party-planning mistake?

Many people don't give themselves enough time. Plan like a Boy Scout, and always be prepared.

Breakfast cereal tied to lower BMI for kids

Diet. Milk, vitamins and minerals are a magic combo for kids' health.

Regularly eating cereal for breakfast is tied to healthy weight for kids, according to a new study that endorses making breakfast cereal accessible to low-income kids to help fight childhood obesity.

One in every four American children lives in a food-insecure household where breakfast isn't a sure thing, lead author Dr. Lana Frantzen tells Reuters Health.

"[Cereal] is an excellent breakfast choice: It's simple and gets those essential nutrients that children need, especially low-income minority children," who tend to be hit hardest by childhood obesity and related health problems, says Frantzen, who is employed by a regional dairy council in Texas.

Previous studies have linked breakfast with a lower body mass index. The new study looked at the role that breakfast, specifically cereal, plays in weight and nutrition among low-income kids.

Kids who ate more cereal got more vitamin D, B-3, B-12, riboflavin, calcium, iron, zinc and potassium in their diets than kids who ate less cereal or none at all. They also got slightly more calories, fat, fiber and sugar.

Cereals are fortified with vitamins and minerals, and the milk that usually comes with cereals is a good source of calcium, potassium and vitamin D, Frantzen says.

Dr. Matthew Haemer of Children's Hospital Colorado recommends that parents choose cereals high in fiber and low in sugar and fat. REUTERS

Horoscope

♈ Aries | March 21 - April 20. To achieve some of your bigger objectives, you might have to do things in a circuitous way.

♊ Gemini | May 22 - June 20. Take nothing for granted in your commercial and personal dealings. You might think you have an agreement when all you've got is maybe.

♋ Cancer | June 21 - July 22. To get along well with someone who is pertinent to your plans, it might be necessary for you to make some concessions.

♌ Leo | July 23 - Aug. 22. When sharing a job with others, be sure that no one person has more work to do than the others. Each must do his or her share.

♍ Virgo | Aug. 23 - Sept. 22. Be prepared to operate on your own if it becomes necessary. A friend upon whom you can depend might let you down.

♎ Libra | Sept. 23 - Oct. 22. Be a good sport and pick up all the pieces after someone's temper tantrum. This person needs to be consoled, not chastised.

♏ Scorpio | Oct. 23 - Nov. 21. It's rarely a good idea to get angry with someone just because he or she disagrees with you.

♑ Capricorn | Dec. 22 - Jan 20. If you are not successful, it isn't due to a lack of good ideas. Your implementation might not be great.

♒ Aquarius | Jan. 21 - Feb 18. Be careful that you do not trip over your own shoelaces. The only obstacles in your path are the ones you put there yourself.

♓ Pisces | Feb. 19 - March 20. If it's up to you to make plans for a get-together with friends, give thought to who is involved.

Yesterday's answer

Letters

Once taken, there's no going back

How can an inanimate object kill people? Simple: You put a person with a motive behind a car, a fork, knife, crossbow, gun or a metal pole, and they'll injure or kill someone. You take the tool away from the killer, the killer gets creative and uses other tools. Anyway, that's not entirely why I'm responding. Letter writer John Stuhrr talks about putting sanctions on cars like there isn't enough anyway. They've been working on completely destroying the automotive hobby for years, due to unrelated events. There's nothing we automotive enthusiasts can do because we simply do not have the strength in numbers that would prevent such bills, don't let it happen to guns, people. Unless you want to simply hand your freedom over one day.

ELI JEAN, VIA E-MAIL

An analogy rotten as bad fruit

Re: "Cars, also a weapon" (Metro, April 15) How is your analogy faulty? Let me count the ways: 1) Guns are weapons, PERIOD, and were invented solely for killing either animals or people. It is the only tool that mankind uses that has that express purpose; 2) There ARE restrictions and government regulation of automobiles — got a license? Ahem; 3) Just like is done for cars, when moms get MAD, they insist on common-sense restrictions; 4) Yes, it certainly is healthier to take a bus or train. It's also healthier not to own military assault weapons and 30-clip magazines. Please, refrain from mixing apples and oranges, unless you're making fruit salad — or better, ambrosia.

Columbia

If you love "Mad Men"

Just a few subway stops north of Don Draper's stomping ground, students can take a deeper look at the forces at work in the era of mod furniture and unironic facial hair. With the Vietnam War, the civil rights movement and the countercultural revolution, there's plenty to choose from. "The Sixties" at Columbia University, May 28-July 5

CUNY

If "filibuster" is gibberish to you

Sometimes it's nearly impossible to understand what is going on in Congress. For the congressionally confused, CUNY promises to teach students exactly how it goes down. No guarantees that learning about Congress won't make you tear your hair out. "The Congress" at CUNY, June 3-27

NYU

If you want to put the "fair" in "fair trade"

There's a more to those coffee beans than the flair of the perfect cup. At NYU, students explore corporate responsibility and sustainability to learn exactly what the "fair" in fair trade means. "Sustainability and Corporate Social Responsibility" at New York University, June 22-29

SUNY Empire State College Growing and Thriving

This year, SUNY Empire State College graduated its largest class. More than 3,400 students in New York State, across the nation and around the world, were awarded State University of New York degrees from Empire State College. Unlike many recent college graduates, our graduates tend to be older (average age 36) and are more likely to have been holding down demanding jobs, raising families and participating in community activities while they learned.

That's because Empire State College was designed for motivated learners. At Empire State College, you can study independently, either through online courses or independent studies with a faculty mentor, or a combination of both - the fast-growing blended learning. You also may take study groups with your peers focusing on topics of interest or cross register at another college. At Empire State College, the best way to learn is determined by you.

You will be guided by a SUNY faculty mentor, assigned to you, who will assist you in designing a degree program that fits your needs, identifying prior college-level learning, and helping you to plan how to fulfill the academic requirements you will need in order to complete your degree. With your mentor's help, you will tailor a degree program that meets your needs and aspirations.

Empire State College also is a leader in providing college degrees for our active and returning men and women of the military. In 2012, nearly 200 military men and women earned degrees that will allow them to advance in their military careers or transition to civilian jobs. The college's Office of Military and Veteran Education employs specialists, often former military themselves, to help our active and returning service members plan a degree program that is rigorous, yet which they can complete during their deployments or stateside.

And when they have earned their undergraduate degrees, the college offers them the opportunity to complete a graduate degree in a wide array of areas including business administration, policy studies, liberal studies, teaching and exciting new fields such as adult learning and emerging technologies. We also have numerous certificate programs that can stand alone, or later be counted toward a degree program.

In more than 40 years, Empire State College has partnered with people like you seeking to advance professionally and personally. Call 877-372-6759, or visit www.esc.edu, to embark on what can be one of the most exciting journeys you will ever take.

New York City's Best Kept Secret: BRAMSON ORT COLLEGE

What makes a school stand out from the rest? Many New York City Colleges claim to offer great educational services and programs, but there is one college that stands out as the best kept secret in affordable non-for-profit private school education. Located in the heart of the beautiful Queens and Brooklyn neighborhoods, Bramson ORT College has recently received much attention with the addition of the Game Design and Programming, Renewable Energy, and Paralegal Degree Programs. The school has been viewed as an oasis of career opportunities for inner city youth. The Queens and Brooklyn Campuses also offer Degrees in Accounting, Business Management, Business Management Online, Medical Assistant, Administrative Assistant, Professional Billing and Coding, Electronics Technology, Computer Networking, Graphic Design, and many more.

Class sizes are small, so students get the individual attention they need in a hands-on environment. The faculty are professionals with classroom and industry experience. In addition, the school offers GED Prep classes for the community. What is most impressive is that Bramson ORT College is part of an international World ORT Network that focuses on technology-driven education and training that has transformed the lives of millions of graduates.

In today's tough economy, students and parents of High School graduates should consider the benefits of such a school as Bramson ORT College that provides low tuition coupled with great scholarships and educational opportunities. As the popularity of the school's programs spreads throughout its campuses, the college might not be a "secret" for much longer. The school is close to major transportation, including the E, F, N, R, M, and D subway lines. For more information call (866) 854-5014 or visit the website at www.BramsonORT.edu.

A Career in Teaching Is within Reach

With the demand for qualified teachers expected to grow in the years ahead, individuals uncertain about their careers or fresh out of college can look to education as a field of opportunity. Starting teacher salaries often exceed $50,000 per year and the rewards of teaching include the chance to make a difference in the world and a level of job security and benefits beyond that of most professions.

Fast-Track Career Option

The School of Education at St. John's University offers accelerated Career Change programs for college graduates with a degree outside of education who want to become teachers. These 42- to 48-credit master's degree programs enable qualified students to seek employment halfway through their course work after meeting New York State teacher certification requirements.

Preparation for Today's Classrooms

Career changers have the option of specializing in early childhood, childhood, or adolescent education (biology, English, mathematics, social studies, and Spanish), or of pursuing dual certification in childhood/special education, childhood/TESOL, and early childhood/teaching students with disabilities. Multiple certifications prepare our graduates to secure the best available jobs, advance in the field, and fill a wide range of roles even outside of the classroom.

U.S. News & World Report recently ranked The School of Education at St. John's University among America's top 100 education graduate schools for producing innovative and visionary teachers. The University offers outstanding professors, high-tech resources, and small classes within a congenial university setting. This type of preparation enables our graduates to succeed in today's dynamic, multicultural, and challenging school environments.

Where Courses Are Offered

You can take courses toward the MEd at one of St. John's campuses in Queens, Staten Island, Manhattan, or Oakdale, as well as online. Complete degrees are not available at all locations.

Eligibility

Applicants must be college graduates with a minimum 3.0 GPA who majored in a field outside of education.

For More Information

We invite you to meet our faculty and learn more about this life-changing program by attending one of our upcoming open houses or setting up an appointment to discuss the program in person with a representative from The School of Education.

Marist College, recognized for excellence by The Princeton Review, U.S. News & World Report, Kiplinger's Personal Finance Magazine, Barron's Best Buys in College Education and Entrepreneur Magazine, is a highly selective comprehensive liberal arts institution noted for its leadership in the use of technology in and out of the classroom. Founded in 1929, Marist's 240-acre campus overlooks the east and west banks of the Hudson River in Poughkeepsie, New York, midway between New York City and Albany, the state capital.

The Marist MBA is an AACSB-accredited program ranked as one of the top 14 online MBA programs in 2011 by U.S. News & World Report. In 2012, U.S. News & World Report included Marist in their listing of the top 250 part-time MBA programs and Marist is consistently listed in the Princeton Review's Best 300 Business Schools.

With a 100% online, residency-free format, the Marist MBA is accessible - and does not require an undergraduate degree in business. Students come from a wide range of interesting backgrounds including business management, accounting, banking, brokerage, engineering, systems analysis, IT, health care, human resources, manufacturing, and marketing.

With a strong focus on virtual management skills, there's no better place to explore the organization of geographically dispersed teams than with Marist's asynchronous online learning format. Students and faculty participate in the program regardless of location or time zone. While the courses are structured and interactive - with clearly articulated assignments, projects, readings, discussions, and deadlines - there are very few times when you will be required to log-in on a specific date and time. If you need flexible scheduling but want the prestige of an AACSB-accredited program, the Marist MBA will meet your needs.

Unlike other colleges, Marist offers merit scholarships and partnerships with select organizations to assist students with reducing tuition costs. Financial need is not required for eligibility. Students with an undergraduate GPA of 3.2 - 3.49 may receive up to $150 scholarship per course. Students with an undergraduate GPA of 3.5 or higher may receive up to $250 scholarship per course. Our academic partnerships provide students with funds to defray tuition up to 25%. # Sanchez bringing positive mentality

NFL. The Jets' QB says he is "fired up" about the team and is ready to battle for his job as the starter.

If Mark Sanchez doesn't get fired up, he might just get fired.

Sanchez spoke on a conference call with the media yesterday as the Jets kick-started organized team activities, hoping to rebound from a bad year and potentially save head coach Rex Ryan's job.

During his call, Sanchez said he is "fired up about this year" — even as the Jets brought in veteran quarterback David Garrard this offseason for competition.

"I totally respect that,

Sanchez had a disastrous 14 touchdowns and 18 interceptions last season. / JIM MCISAAC, GETTY IMAGES as far as I am concerned, I am preparing to play well for this team and do the best I can," Sanchez said. "I am preparing for my role and am doing everything in my control to be the best quarterback on the roster."

It may not be his job anymore as new general manager John Idzik has made it clear no one on the roster is going to be handed a starting position, not even Sanchez.

Sanchez will compete with Garrard as well as Greg McElroy and Tim Tebow for the starting job.

He was even rumored to be part of a trade package with Tampa Bay in a deal that would have sent cornerback Darrelle Revis to the Buccaneers. A team source told Metro earlier this week that there was no validity to the trade rumors involving Sanchez.

Sanchez said on the call that he hasn't spoken with team management about the trade rumor and he didn't seem ready to justify the talk.

"That is more of an upstairs question," Sanchez said. "I'm not worried about that."

Holmes free

The biggest name on the Jets' offense was not at camp as workouts opened yesterday, according to the Daily News.

- Santonio Holmes is reportedly still rehabbing in Ohio from the foot injury which cut short his 2012 season. But not only is he undergoing treatment at his alma mater Ohio State, he is apparently also taking classes.

- Holmes wasn't there, but backup quarterback Tim Tebow was. He had previously said he planned to come, even though the Jets have reportedly been trying to trade Tebow for most of the offseason.

Draft adds names

A handful of elite prospects were added for the NBA Draft yesterday, led by Kentucky's Nerlens Noel. Noel, who tore his ACL last season, was the top recruit in the country last season. Despite the injury, he's still a likely Top 5 pick. Maryland's Alex Len, Georgia's Kentavious Caldwell-Pope and Georgetown's Otto Porter Jr. were also declared.

Quoted

"My heart and soul is into this thing. ... That's really where my head is at. I'm fired up about this year."

Ready to go

Nicks happy to be healthy

Giants receiver Hakeem Nicks was back on the field with his teammates yesterday for the first time since a disappointing end to the 2012 season.

Nicks had no catches in the final two games after trying to struggle through with a knee injury.

"I don't even look at [last season] now," Nicks said. "It is gone now, so it is what it is. It is in the past. It is something that I learned from."

Nicks caught passes from Eli Manning yesterday on the first day of camp. METRO

Cruz sets sail

Cruz not at Giants camp

To no one's surprise, Victor Cruz was a no-show as Giants offseason camp opened yesterday.

The receiver is a restricted free agent and has not been able to come to terms with the team. He was placed with a first-round tender earlier this offseason, making another team unlikely to sign him. METRO

QB1's back

Manning was ready to go

To the surprise of no one, Eli Manning was one of the first to show up on the first day of camp. He just wishes it was sooner.

"We used to start in mid-March. It is pushed back a month," he said. "I usually start throwing April 1. So I have kind of kept that routine these last years, just throwing on my own." METRO

NBA. Knicks lose to Bobcats without any of stars in rotation

It turns out the Knicks will need Carmelo Anthony, Raymond Felton and J.R. Smith if they plan to compete in the postseason.

Head coach Mike Woodson gave his stars the night off after the team clinched all that was available to them over the weekend.

The result was an unsurprising loss to lowly Charlotte, 106-95, despite a gallant effort from reserve-turned-starter Chris Copeland. The forward finished with 32 points and seven rebounds as he played all but one minute of the game.

In fact, Woodson played very few players — mainly because he had very few to play. The bad news was Rasheed Wallace, who returned to the lineup for the first time since December only to leave with a reaggravated foot injury.

Copeland led a Knicks team that rested its stars.

Good news?

If the Knicks want to take good news from the loss, Steve Novak looked good.

- The 3-point specialist has struggled much of the season, but in 41 minutes last night he posted 17 points. Most importantly, he was 5-of-7 from deep.

Nets pull out win with starters on the bench

Unlike the Knicks, Brooklyn rested their stars — Deron Williams, Brook Lopez, Joe Johnson and Reggie Evans — but beat the Wizards, 106-101. / GETTY IMAGES

WNBA. Griner chosen as top pick in draft, Delle Donne goes next

The Phoenix Mercury gained a 6-foot-8 centerpiece in last night's 2013 WNBA Draft.

As expected, the Mercury selected reigning consensus player of the year Brittney Griner from Baylor No. 1 overall. Griner was a dominant force in women's basketball, setting the record for most career blocks and second all time in scoring.

Delware's Elena Delle Donne, who originally went to UConn and quit the sport for a year, was selected No. 2 overall by the Chicago Sky. She finished fifth all time in women's basketball scoring.

Former Notre Dame star Skylar Diggins went third overall to the Tulsa Shock. METRO
